

Motivation

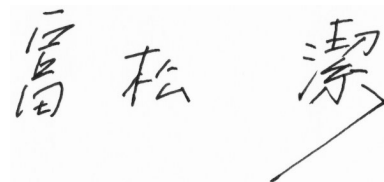

Home institution Kyushu University is the top institution in Design research field of Japan. We can act as a leader university to organize CUMULUS activity in the future. CUMULUS activity is one of our major international strategy. We would like to hold CUMULUS conference at Kyushu University in near future.

I am a former president of ADADA (Asia Digital Art and Design Association). CUMULUS and ADADA have signed a MOU of both collaborative partnership. We have already hold a collaborative international conference ADADA+CUMULUS 2018 last November at Tainan National Cheng Cong University. It was so successful and fruitful conference, that we will keep continue and grow it up in Asian universities in the future. This year ADADA+CUMULU international conference will be held in Malaysia in November.

My vision is to combine design education and design research, especially in high tech design, social service design and co-creative design field into the CUMULUS international community.

My motivation is to activate much more cultural exchange between west and east, Europe, Africa, America to and with Asian countries in design education and design research field.
