x files for internationalisation

Working group

About x files for internationalisation:
With more than twenty years’ history, x files is the oldest working group of the Cumulus association. It is a forum for international networking, a vehicle for the cultivation of existing collaborations and the discovery of new opportunities, as well as a platform for global engagement and interaction. The leadership team of x files is working on developing a toolset for academic internationalisation, specifically for higher education institutions of art and design.

Our main objectives are:
- To facilitate collaborations during the Cumulus conference and to provide members with tools to sustain conversations;
- To help members find prospective partners and lay the groundwork for new collaborations;
- To provide space and time to all Cumulus conference attendees to connect with an active network of international academic programs;
- To establish networking opportunities in the creative context of the conference.

Participants of the X-files working group include all types of university personnel: faculty members, administrative staff, deans, directors, researchers, etc.

The current organizing team is composed of:
Chair: Lisa Janssen, Köln International School of Design (Germany); Anne Schoonbrodt, Politecnico di Milano (Italy); Inken Krevet, The Sustainable Design School (France)
Vice Chair: Sara X. J. Chen, Jiangnan University (China)
Board Members: Paolo Susterics, ELISAVA (Spain); Mike Fu, Parsons School of Design (USA); Cora Santjer, Willem de Kooning Academy (Netherlands).
